Business Seminar Series: Tax Basics for Business with Legal Q & A Session

Taxes are always a big issue for small businesses and help is on the way. Learn tips and resources for the major taxes business must deal with at the next Wednesday night Business Seminar on March 9, from 5:30 – 7:30 p.m., offered free in the Inglewood Main Library Lecture Hall, 101 W. Manchester Blvd., Inglewood. Ben Martin, a Small Business Development Center (SBDC) lawyer consultant, will lead the Tax Basics for Business with Legal Q & A Session workshop. Refreshments will be served.

Business Seminar Series is co-sponsored by the Inglewood Public Library, the Inglewood /Airport Area Chamber of Commerce, El Camino College Business Development Department, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board and the City of Inglewood Economic and Business Development Department. Three more seminars are to follow on select Wednesdays, each centering on different aspects of small business and each led by a small business expert. On March 16, Access to Capital will be offered, followed by Advanced Marketing on March 30, and Legal Issues on April 13.

For further information telephone the Library at (310) 412-5380 or the Inglewood/Airport Area Chamber of Commerce at (310) 677-1121.
